

Emergency Worker School Hub - Tarleton Community Primary School

Dear Parent/Carers,

We are in unprecedented times. There is a great potential for schools to shut in the coming days which would put a greater strain on all emergency services, especially the NHS risking the lives of many.

I am currently looking into the practicalities of setting up an Emergency Worker School Hub should schools shut nationally. The hub would be based at Tarleton Community Primary School and would be open to primary aged pupils (Nursery to Y6) and would be for the children of emergency workers in the area. It would not function like a school would normally but would be activity based. The main purpose is to support emergency service personnel so that they can do their job safe in the knowledge that their children are safe, happy and well-cared for. There will be no cost for the provision (with the exception of dinners as would be the case in a normal school).

This is an initial expression of interest so that we can ascertain the scale of need should schools close. Therefore we will confirm based on the situation whether or not we are able to go ahead at a later date. If you are an emergency worker and have primary aged children and feel you may need this service, please complete the following information, copy and paste it into an email and send it to Gill Fairbrother at the following:
